An Important Update from Delmhorst Instrument Co

Thank You to Our Valued Customers, Suppliers, and Partners

Over the past eighty years, Delmhorst Instrument Co. has had the privilege of serving the moisture measurement needs of the lumber, building trades, and agricultural industries. Rooted in William Delmhorst's original meter design to trace building leaks and guided by Aristide Laurenzi's vision to pioneer what are now indispensable tools for production, quality control, and inspection, our mission has never wavered: to build precision US-made instruments paired with the reliability and support our customers deserve.

That legacy of craftsmanship was made possible by the dedication of our talented employees - past and present - whose hard work and expertise have been the backbone of Delmhorst for eight decades.

Today, we want to share a significant milestone in our history. After 64 years under Laurenzi family management and ownership, we have made the decision to sell Delmhorst Instrument.

While this marks the end of an era for our family, it is the beginning of an exciting new chapter for the business. We have carefully chosen a successor in Nielsen-Kellerman who shares our core values and is deeply committed to maintaining the high standards of rugged, robust, US-made products and technical expertise. NK will provide the vision, energy and resources to build on our legacy and take the Delmhorst brand to new heights.

What does this mean for you?

- Continuous Support: Our commitment to your current orders and technical support remains unchanged during this period. Contact info and website remain the same.
- The Same Dedicated Care: We are working together with the new team to ensure a seamless transition so that your day-to-day experience remains uninterrupted.
- Future Growth: Over the coming months operations will be transitioned to NK's state-of-the-art facility in Boothwyn PA. This move will bring expanded capabilities and resources to better serve your business for years to come.

To our many long-time customers and friends, thank you. Thank you for your decades of trust, your partnership, and for allowing us to be a small part of your success. We are incredibly proud of the legacy we've built together, and we face the future with gratitude.

If you have any immediate questions about the transition or your account, please do not hesitate to reach out to us directly at 877-335-6467 or info@delmhorst.com
